Camiko Smith Leads Bermuda Championship Local Qualifier After Round 1

SOUTHAMPTON, BERMUDA (October 13, 2020) – Camiko Smith posted a 1-under par 70 to take the lead following the first round of the 2020 local qualifier at Port Royal Golf Course. The two-day event boasts a field of twenty-four Bermudians competing for three spots representing their country in the second annual Bermuda Championship, October 26 to November 1 at Port Royal.

Smith's round contained an eagle, 3 birdies, and 2 double bogeys. Amateur Will Haddrell finished solo second after an even par 71 and in third place is Jarryd Dillas at 1-over par. Dillas is trailed closely by fellow 2019 qualifiers for the island's first PGA TOUR event, Michael Sims (+2), Daniel Augustus (+3), and Dwayne Pearman (+3). Also T5 at 3-over par is amateur Mikus Ming.

The final round starts Wednesday with tee times commencing at 10:00 a.m.
