Today – Lingering showers are possible this morning as cooler air over spreads the region behind the front. Otherwise mostly cloudy skies will gradually give way to more sunshine as we get into the afternoon and evening hours. The wind will remain strong out of the north and shifting northeast 15-20 mph. Temperatures will be a little cooler with highs in the mid 70s.

Extended forecast – Partly cloudy skies can be expected to start the day on Sunday before clouds increase late in the day. Scattered showers will be possible by Sunday evening as the front lifts back to the north. A stronger cold front will move across the area Monday bringing a band of rain and isolated thunderstorms during the afternoon. It will be windy out of the southwest with gusts to 40-45 mph possible during the afternoon as the front moves through the area. Partly cloudy skies and cooler conditions return Tuesday into Wednesday.
