Today: – Partly cloudy skies can be expected to start the day with clouds increasing late this afternoon into the evening hours. Can't rule out a passing shower today, but showers will become more likely later tonight as a cold front moves towards the area. An east wind of 10-15 mph will shift southeast and gradually increase by this evening and strengthen further overnight.

Monday's Forecast – A strong cold front will move across Bermuda mid-afternoon into the evening hours. Showers will be possible Monday morning and increase in coverage becoming a band of rain and a few thunderstorms as the front moves through. The wind will be strong out of the SW 15-20 gusting to 30 mph and increasing to 25-30 gusting to 40 mph as the front moves across Bermuda. Rainfall could be heavy at times, especially during the late afternoon. Conditions should improve Sunday night with the showers tapering-off and the wind gradually decreasing.
